							D	N	12:52 PM	N/A	Cyrus, MD			7/8/2011 12:52 -- NON-CERTIFICATION REASON: Information received by telephone was reviewed. The history is chest pain. The description of the pain indicates that there is a low to intermediate risk of heart problems. The member can exercise. The test might be needed if the member could not exercise on a treadmill enough to raise his heart rate. Another reason this test might be needed is an electrocardiogram (EKG or tracing of heart activity) (recording of heart function) that had a finding prevents a routine exercise stress test (walking on a treadmill while recording an electrocardiogram (EKG or tracing of heart activity) to be unreliable or if the exercise stress test was abnormal. This test might also be needed if the member was taking a heart medicine called Digoxin.

The history is problems holding urine and stool in. The test might be needed if the member had findings that suggested an infection like a fever or an abnormally high blood test (called a white blood cell count). However, a non-contrast MRI of the spine of the low back could be approved if requested.

The history is persistent low back pain. The test might be needed if there was a history of low back pain/spine surgery. The test also might be needed if there was fever or recent abnormal blood test that shows as increased white blood cell count to suggest infection. An MRI of lumbar spine without contrast could be approved at this time if requested.
